ABSTRACT

A project was undertaken to develop a realistic survival skills curriculum in language arts for adult basic education (ABE) students that could be used with predischarge residents in institutions for mentally ill individuals in Pennsylvania. After identifying 28 predischarge residents at the Harrisburg State Hospital in Harrisburg, Pennsylvania, researchers developed five community resources skills units for the students to master and use upon release into the community. This curriculum involved the use of a flipchart, booklets, and flashcards and addressed the following skills: understanding survival signs, reading a newspaper, taking a bus, shopping, and using a telphone. The Curriculum and Teacher Guide document contains checklists, suggestions for further reading, a recommended instructional method, a series of matching games, a preliminary test, a posttest, and an evaluation sheet. The preliminary test and posttest results attested to the effectiveness of this training in helping the students become more productive and responsible citizens upon their release into the community. Based on the reports of counselors into whose care the students were discharged, the project was deemed a success and recommendations were made calling for dissemination of the project materials throughout Pennsylvania. ABSTRACT

Since the process of deinstitutionalization has become a reality it was necessary to develop a realistic survival skills curriculum in language arts for 0-4 level ABE students. This project identified 28 predischarge residents in the institution and developed five community resources skills using simple terms for the student to learn and use upon release into the community. A preliminary test was administered to check how skilled the residents were in the five competencies, the curriculum and guide was written, used in the classes, and evaluated. The project will be disseminated to all mental health institutions in the Commonwealth.

0-4 LEVEL ADULT BASIC EDUCATION STUDENT

INTRODUCTION

According to the Community Residential Rehabilitation Services for the Mentally Ill, a survey was conducted and one of the goals of the agency was "to slow down the revolving door syndrome and prevent readmission to hospitals as much as possible."[1]

This revolving door syndrome would be alleviated if the residents who left the hospital were better prepared to cope with the society outside the institution. In Governor Dick Thornburgh's budget of 1982-83, one of the objectives of institutionalized care is "to reduce the mental disabilities of individuals and to restore their capacity to function in a community setting or an alternate treatment or residential setting in as short a period of time as possible by providing high quality inpatient care, treatment, and programs."[2] To accomplish this, through special programming a curriculum was developed to assist the residents upon discharge into the community.

There are 470 residents at the Harrisburg State Hospital. There are 228 residents enrolled in the Adult Basic Education classes, 121 of the residents are enrolled in the 0-4 level classes because that is the level on which they are functioning.

(Of these 121, 28 were selected as the target for the survival skills curriculum because they would be discharged from the institution within six months.)

The staff in the Education Department at the Harrisburg State Hospital have tried to find commercially produced materials that would aid the residents with the skills needed to survive in the community following discharge. Most often the materials for the lower level students with mental problems were too abstract to grasp. Therefore, the need to develop a concrete set of materials specially designed for the student with limited ability emerged. Each of the areas to be targeted, use of bus system, use of the telephone, newspaper, survival signs, and supermarket vocabulary was carefully designed so a step by step procedure would ensure success. The teachers who will utilize this curriculum will have a better understanding of how to teach these skills with the companion teacher's manual which will illustrate the skills set forth in the curriculum.

This grant developed a survival skills language arts curriculum which will aid institutional personnel in educating the residents residing in the institution in the methods of understanding use of busses, telephones, newspapers, survival signs, and supermarket shopping. All of these skills were evaluated following the use of the special curriculum.

Twenty-eight predischarge residents (a predischarge resident is a resident who would be discharged from the institution within a period of six months) were identified and the curriculum was designed to teach the skills above mentioned. Most of the residents who are functioning on a 0-4 level are not capable of using these resources because what knowledge they have, has not been put into practical use. These residents now have a working knowledge of these skills so they will be able to succeed in the community. A step by step method using these resources assisted rather than hampered the success of these residents.

One of the original goals was to educate 30 residents in the use of survival skills. It is not enough to first educate them but the staff must play an active role in helping the residents use these skills in the community prior discharge.

The objectives were obtained in the period of time allotted. The curriculum was written in the first phase of the grant period. It was then taught in the classroom, tested, and modified. Through field trips to the community, the curriculum was evaluated and it was printed and disseminated.

The personnel involved were Joan Y. Leopold who administered the grant, Leo Banning the institution accountant and Cindy Golob his assistant, and Carolyn Anstine and Margret Greene who wrote and designed the curriculum.

It was hoped at the beginning of this project that the curriculum would be of value to personnel in other institutions and mental health centers as well as base service units in Pennsylvania.

A copy of this curriculum will be filed with AdvancE, the Adult Education Clearinghouse.

This effort would not have been possible without the support and endorsement of the Harrisburg State Hospital Superintendent,

OBJECTIVES OF MINI-GRANT

OBJECTIVE 1 - TO MODIFY COMMERCIALLY PREPARED LANGUAGE ARTS PRODUCTS TO USE WITH THE 0-4 LEVEL PRE-RELEASE RESIDENTS.

After an initial study of the availability of commercially prepared language arts activities geared to the 0-4 level, the teachers at the hospital developed a curriculum for the predischarge residents at the institution.

The commercially prepared materials did not address the needs of the 0-4 level, mentally ill resident. The apprehension that most residents have to living in the community outside the institution made it clear to the staff that developing materials specifically geared to this type of student would be valuable.

A list of all the residents in the hospital who would be discharged within a six month period was obtained. In the institution this information is usually determined by the treatment teams made up of a psychiatrist, psychologist, social worker, nurse, activity therapist, and teacher. Twenty-eight residents were selected realizing that some might leave the institution before the curriculum was completed and others might be in the institution a longer period of time because of setbacks that the education staff could not control.

It was then determined on what level these students were functioning and through the Adult Basic Education classes at the hospital the curriculum was made.

OBJECTIVE 2 - WRITE TEACHER'S MANUAL

The teachers who produced the curriculum used a flipchart, booklets, and flashcards. The step by step manual for teaching incorporates each section: survival signs, shopping, newspaper, bus, and telephone. Ms. Anstine and Ms. Greene visited the Capital Area Transit Authority to help the student visualize the inside of the CAT bus. They felt this would alleviate some of the fears of the resident if the bus could be visualized in advance of its use.

The Bell Telephone Company was very helpful in loaning materials especially the Teletrainer, a set of telephones, enabling the student to actually dial and talk to another person.

The Giant supermarket allowed the teachers to borrow sample displays to use in the production of this project.

The Patriot News Company through the newspaper in the classroom program provided several suggestions for uses of the newspaper in conjunction with our special curriculum. The flipcharts used for the survival signs and flashcards were made by the students with the teacher's help. The procedure was repeated for each section and the students were encouraged to take the flashcards with them after class to practice vocabulary skills, usually five to ten of the most difficult words.

The teacher's manual suggested supplemental activities but it was observed by the teachers who taught the curriculum that through the practice of key words many side discussions occurred. The teacher allowed 10-15 minutes per class for discussions and found every student participated. They had really done their homework and were anxious to display what they had learned.

The teacher's manual also stresses the importance of field trips to the supermarket using the bus and the newspaper. The use of the telephone and survival signs can be used while on a field trip in order to practice all the skills learned.

The teacher who uses this curriculum should be able to expand on many of the suggestions that were given if the curriculum is followed properly. The teachers who wrote it felt that there were many other components that the students will be able to grasp following the initial use of this project.

OBJECTIVE 3 - IMPROVE SKILLS OF STUDENTS

In the implementation section of the Adult Education State Plan, Goal 3 suggests that "means be made available to adults to secure training that will enable them to become more employable, productive, and responsible citizens."[3] This specially prepared curriculum was designed to enable the predischarge residents to improve their skills so they can function more successfully in society upon discharge.

Using the flipchart and specially prepared books the resident felt more confident to go into the community and apply the skills they learned. When the students took the post test an overwhelming majority could answer all the questions correctly.

It was evident from this program that the students did secure training that would help them become more productive and responsible citizens.

The follow up in the community is ongoing. All the residents who have been discharged are succeeding; this by way of regular reports from the counselors in the homes in which they are living. The counselors have requested copies of our project when it is completed and this encourages us that the project was a success.

CONCLUSIONS

The project achieved the goals it set forth - a curriculum was written after commercially made products were modified. A teacher's manual with methodology was written and the skills of the students who were discharged into the community were improved. Most of all however, the students gain confidence. Most residents when discharged from the hospital have a fear of what life will be like outside the hospital in the community. If this project did anything positive, it helped the resident's transition into a normal society and hopefully will "slow down the revolving door syndrome and prevent readmission to the hospital as much as possible."[4]

LANGUAGE ARTS 0-4 CURRICULUM

TEACHERS

This program is designed to teach a survival vocabulary to the 0-4 level adult in the following areas: signs, shopping, newspaper, bus, and telephone. We have related the recognition of survival words with survival skills needed to function in the community.

This program provides a core. Supplemental materials and activities can be used when the need arises. This is a compendium of materials which have been gathered from many areas and incorporated with our material.

METHOD OF INSTRUCTION

1. Give preliminary test.
2. Go through one section of this program at a time. Suggested order is signs, shopping, newspaper, bus, telephone.
3. As you go through each section, use booklets and flipcharts. Choose significant words from flipchart pages....depending on the ability of the students.
4. Make up flashcards to reinforce material. Help the student to collect pictures from newspapers, magazines, and old phone books, put them on 3x5 cards and write the associated word. (The more the student participates the more he/she learns.) Student can practice difficult words with other students; this can also be a review.
5. Use checklist to determine how much each student is retaining.
6. Review as necessary.
7. Use supplemental activities when possible and take field trips to practice skills related to curriculum.
8. Give post test.

Reagan Vows to Curb Soaring U.S. Deficits

—AP Laserphoto

President Introduces Cabinet Nominee

esident Reagan last night appears in the East Room of the hite House with Elizabeth Hanford Dole, whom he said he will minate to replace Drew Lewis as secretary of the U.S. Depart-ent of Transportation. They appeared at the president's 15th news conference since taking office.

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Reagan vowed last night to curb soaring federal deficits, but not with tax increases in time of recession and not with defense cuts "below the level at which we can declare ourselves safe."

He said if the Pentagon budget can be cut without danger, "it will be cut."

But Reagan said he is not ready to discuss details of the federal budget he is now preparing — likely to be about $200 billion in the red — or the steps he will propose to reduce deficits.

"There are no decisions that have been made," he said. "I will look at everything."

At that, the president, besieged with complaints that his spending program was headed for what Republican Sen. Paul Laxalt of Nevada called "terrifying" deficit levels, effectively rejected the recommendation of his top economic advisers that he embrace a combination of tax increases and Pentagon cuts.

Raising taxes, he declared, "is not the way out of a recession."

At his first news conference of the new year, Reagan also refused to intervene or offer guidance to the stalled commission on financial reform of the Social Security system, "no matter how much they ask for it." He said that to do so would make the whole issue into "the same old political football."

The president named Elizabeth Hanford Dole to become secretary of transportation, and the firs woman to head a Cabinet agency h his administration.

And, in a footnote comment a he left the news conferenc Reagan disputed claims that th United States is stalling at the stra tegic arms reduction talks in Gene va. He said Edward Rowny, th chief U.S. negotiator, is optimisti — although administration offi cials had previously sought to plu

Red Spy Satellite Poses N-Danger

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Defense Department yesterday said it is "monitoring carefully" a nuclear-powered Soviet spy satellite which likely will plunge back to Earth late this month. The radioactive debris could prove dangerous if it falls into a populated area, it said.

The official Pentagon statement did not describe the satellite's trouble, but did confirm that a part of it "which we believe contains a nuclear reactor as its power supply will probably re-enter the Earth's

At this time, the Pentagon said, "We do not know where it will land, nor do we know precisely when to expect re-entry."

Earlier, U.S. intelligence sources said the ocean surveillance satellite, Cosmos 1402, was tumbling out of control in a low orbit. These sources, who declined to be identified, said it may be impossible to tell when and where the device will come down until perhaps a dozen hours before it happens.

After its launch Aug. 30, the So-ellite's orbit was 173 miles by 157 miles. The orbit yesterday, according to North American Air Defense Command trackers, was 153 miles by 145 miles.

At an inclination of 64.9 degrees, the satellite traveled over most of the Soviet Union, the entire African continent, all of South America, most of China and all of Australia. It also was going over most of North America, south of Fairbanks, Alaska

Flyers' Clarke sour on

By JOE JULIANO
UPI Sports Writer

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — When talking with Bobby Clarke about his plans for tonight, one gets the feeling he'd rather be home watching "Hill Street Blues."

The Philadelphia Flyers meet the Soviet All-Stars tonight before a sellout crowd of 17,147 at the Spectrum, which will host a Flyers-Soviet game for the third time. The visitors from the U.S.S.R. are 3-2 entering the final game of ha North American tour.

But Clarke, a veteran of some memorable games against the Soviets as a Flyer, an NHL and a member of the host team in the strongly indicated he really team on this side of the them. They need us more than we need them. What annoys me is that when they come here, we treat them like kings, but when our Canadian juniors went over there last year, they treated them like dirt.

"THEY'RE STILL IN Afghanistan and we're letting them come here and make a pile of money. I say to hell with them, let them stay there (in the Soviet Union)."

The Flyers currently are riding a seven-game winning streak that has propelled them to the top of the Patrick Division by five points over Washington and by six points over the New York Islanders. Rookie goalie Pelle Lindbergh, who is expected to start tonight, has allowed just 14 goals in those seven victories.
